

Pam Barbour Photography Workshop - Wildlife Models at Triple D September 19-22, 2008 in Kalispell, MT

WOLVES

TIGERS

Imagine being in the wild, just yards away from a mountain lion, a lynx, or even a bear, camera in hand, trying to get yourself together to take that once in a lifetime photo. Well, chances are, it will be out of focus, a bad composition, or worse yet, you may have missed the opportunity entirely because the animal ran away before you could center yourself. Well, that won't happen here, at the Triple D Game Farm. The animals are absolutely terrific, gorgeous in every way, and love to perform for photographers. You will be able to take hundreds of photos while the animal is in their natural habitat right in front of you. Consider this a practice session for that safari to Africa. Animals can be a difficult subject, so here is a chance to get acquainted with photographing wildlife in motion and composing on the fly. You can expect to go home with many "keepers" that range from close-ups to wide-angle habitat images.

We will spend 3 days photographing a variety of animals (8 sessions) in compounds specifically designed for photography sessions. The Triple D staff is amazing! You won't find a friendlier group of people, and they have years of experience working with the animals. Chances are you have already seen many of these animals in print since they have been photographed by some of the industry's leading pro photographers.

Plus, you will have available, Pam Barbour, a veteran photographer of the Triple D Game Farm, to guide you and assist you with photography issues during our sessions. This workshop is designed to enable you to become a better wildlife photographer, both technically and visually.

We have access to a conference room facility, which will enhance our workshop by allowing us the chance to review images and talk digital. Pam will teach you some great things to do with your images during the afternoons so be sure to bring along your laptop computer.

Our group is limited to 6 participants to keep the photo sessions productive and rewarding for all.

Price: $1200 per participant (includes 8 sessions, individualized instruction, classroom Photoshop instruction)

Additional non-photographer: $50 per day

LEOPARDS

Pam Barbour has been photographing nature and the outdoors for over 18 years. She travels all over the world to capture images, from the Arctic to the Antarctic. Her images have been published in Nature's Best Magazine, JAKES, Cowboys and Indians and several calendars and are held in both private and commercial collections. Pam teaches Photoshop, prints all of her own prints using an Epson 9600 and writes a digital column for CNPA. Her work is represented by Digital Railroad, Leaning Tree, and Adobe Photographer's Directory.
