General Information and Instructor Bio;

In keeping with my small group policy for all my tours and workshops, the 2012 Winter Wildlife Photography Workshop is limited to 10 photographers. This allows for flexibility in obtaining a variety of shots including; close-ups, portraits, behavior and action. This also allows the individual photographer the flexibility to change positions to get the shot he or she desires.

Triple D Game Farm has been working with both professional and amateur photographer and artists for many years and as such are experts at getting the subjects into the optimum locations. Jay and Kim Deist, the owners, and the professional staff at Triple D provide only the best of services to all workshop participants.

Nick Fucci is a professional outdoor & nature photographer currently living in the Flathead Valley of Montana. Originally from Alaska, Nick is the past President of the Alaska Society of Outdoor & Nature Photographers and current President of the Northwest Montana Nature Photographers. His work has been widely published in North American, Europe and Asia. He currently leads photo safaris and workshops to Alaska, Michigan, Costa Rica and closer to home in Montana.

Nick has taught photography for over 16 year and currently teaches Introduction to Outdoor & Nature Photography and an Intermediate Outdoor & Nature Photography Workshop at Flathead Valley Community College.
