

October 6-9, 2017 - 4 Day Wildlife Photography Event

Featuring 8 of Triple “D” s North American Wildlife Species In Northeast Montana’s Fall Colors with Photo Instructor and Photographer Kelly Walkotten.

Join wildlife photographer Kelly Walkotten at Triple “D” for an extended weekend of spectacular Wildlife photography and Autumn Colors. Eight North American animals, specially chosen for you, will be presented in natural settings that include habitats such a stream, pond, willow, cottonwood, aspen and birch groves, spruce-fir forests, rocky ridges, and more. We will photograph mornings and late afternoons to maximize the best lighting.

Also included are 3 classroom sessions with constructive critique of your images, as well as help in both Photoshop and Lightroom. Learn wildlife photography tips, digital workflow and processing, from wildlife photographer Kelly Walkotten. This is a small group setting with a limit of 10 photographers will insure there is no crowding, and each person can receive individualized instruction. There will be room to move around and a tripod can be used, but I find it easier to navigate without one. A long lens is not necessary, I use an 80mm-400mm, but a 70mm-200mm is plenty big enough.

We will plan on the first 3 days of the event to photograph 8 species of animals found in the North Americas. The 4th day is to allow for make-up sessions in the event of inclement weather. If the “open” date is not utilized for make-up sessions, it will be opened up to allow photographers the freedom to photograph any other species listed for $150.00 per photographer, per species (some animals have a minimum of 3 photographers). This is a discounted price special, of 50% off, compared to the normal daily rate.

We will start on October 6, 2017 with an organizational meeting at 8:00am, then head out to our first location to photograph. On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday afternoons, we will meet for critique and Photoshop and Lightroom workflow instruction. Kelly will also be giving hands on instruction throughout your photo sessions, so you get the best possible photographs of the beautiful animals. Field instruction will include, shutter speed, white balance, and fast action shooting, so you come home with the photographs that you dreamed of!
